U. S. Society Matron Held in Murder of Hawaiian

20 OTHERS ACCUSED AS POLICE PROBE HONOLULU KILLING

Native, Accused in Assault, Lured From Courtroom to Death in Automobile After Woman Puts 'Finger' on Him.

VICTIM IS BEATEN, SHOT, STRIPPED

Naval Lieutenant and Mother-in-Law Named in Complaint; Two Enlisted Men Also Held.

HONOLULU, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Mrs. Grace Bell Fortescue, wife of Granville Fortescue, noted American soldier and author and niece of Alexander Graham Bell, and her son-in-law, Lieutenant Thomas H. Massie, U. S. N., were arrested today and charged with slaying Joseph Hahakawai, a young Hawaiian, Hahakawai, with four others, was accused of attacking Mrs. Massie last September.

Mrs. Fortescue and Lieutenant Massie were arrested with E. J. Lord, a naval enlisted man, also named in the murder complaint, after police forced their automobile into an embankment at the end of a ten-mile chase in which several shots were fired.

Police said Mrs. Fortescue was driving the machine and in the back seat was Hahakawai's body, wrapped in a sheet. He had been shot through the heart. Soon after they were returned to Honolulu Chief of Detectives John H. McIntosh swore out the murder complaint.

The slaying of Hahakawai climaxed a series of events in Honolulu during the last several months which has deeply aroused public feeling.

First Jury Disagreed.

Several weeks ago the jury trying Hahakawai and the four others disagreed at their trial.

Dismissal of the jury precipitated the feeling in naval circles and Rear Admiral George T. Pettengill, commander of the 14th naval district, ordered a detachment of marines from Pearl Harbor to patrol the city.

A few days later a mob of 20 men seized Hahakawai, co-defendant with Hahakawai, carried him outside the city and beat him. Simultaneously a series of minor riots broke out in several places in Honolulu and were quelled only after a detachment of marines from Pearl Harbor patrolled the city.

Public feeling again flared a week when an escaped Hawaiian convict attacked and robbed a school teacher. The convict pleaded guilty to the crime and was sentenced to life imprisonment.

Governor Lawrence M. Judd ordered the Hawaiian national guard to co-operate with police in a campaign to "eliminate vice from Honolulu."

51 Plead Not Guilty In "Indecent Play" Case

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Fifty-four actors and actresses, including Nance O'Neil, internationally famous actress, pleaded not guilty late today at their arraignment on charges of appearing in an indecent play.

The show, "Lysistrata," a modernized version of a 2,000-year-old Greek comedy, was raided by vice squad officers after last evening's performance and the players were booked at the city jail, then released on $100 bail each.

The defendants asked for a jury trial, which was set for January 18.

Dickson Morgan, co-producer, said a regular performance would be given at the Carthy Circle theater tonight and every night from now on "if we have to go to jail after every performance."

The United States' intervention in the Manchurian conflict failed to alter Japan's stand yesterday as she reaffirmed her position toward China.

An official spokesman in Tokyo promised that American trade rights in Manchuria would not be infringed but reiterated that Japan could not deviate from her military policy.

An attempt by a Korean to assassinate Emperor Hirohito led to the resignation of Premier Inukai's government as a formal gesture. A bomb was thrown at the emperor's carriage but no one was injured. The government situation again was placed in the hands of Prince Sainoi, the last elder statesman.

Official Washington marked time while waiting for Japan's reply to the Manchurian conflict failed to alter Japan's stand yesterday as she reaffirmed her position toward China.

The vice minister of foreign affairs in Nanking said in an address that China would invoke Article 16 of the league covenant at the next meeting of the council on January 23.

The Japanese military leaders in Mukden expressed some surprise and resentment at America's move. Informally, they maintained that the operations of the army were entirely consistent with the league pact.

International quarters in Europe were gratified at the American stand. The governments of Great Britain, France and Italy were expected to support their future course. League circles in Geneva saw new hope on the horizon for an end to the controversy.

JAPAN MAY PROPOSE
CLARIFICATION OF TREATY
BY JAMES F. HOWE.

TOKYO, Japan, Jan. 8.—(Saturday)—Japan may propose revision of the nine-power treaty to make more clear the definition of "administrative integrity." It was stated on good authority today.

The proposal for revision would be made, it was said, at a conference to be called in the near future.

The recent representations of Secretary of State Stimson to Japan on the bank charges of the investment, partially on the nine-power treaty's provisions.

The government's acknowledgment of the bill reached the White House, it will be vetoed.

Drafted originally by the senate-house democratic policy committee, the bill would provide for an international economic conference looking to the ending of tariff wars among the nations.

Two other principal phases provide for the removal from the president of the power to control the flexible provision of the present law, and the establishment of a consumers' council with the tariff commission.

The fifteen democrats on the ways and means committee that approved the bill held in their report that existing economic conditions were due to the republican tariff and that their committee should change the tariff rates.

Chairman Collier said: "That this widespread depression has been aggravated by the high, and in many instances, prohibitive, rates of the tariff act of 1922, cannot be successfully denied. It attacked the flexible provision under the Smoot-Hawley act and said congress, and not the president, should change the tariff rates.

The ten republican members on the committee in their minority report said:

"In our opinion the legislation is not necessary, nor required by business or other interests of the country, but is a political activity. It contains provisions which the republican party has heretofore rejected as unsound, or are in direct contradiction to its policies.

"It destroys the flexible provisions of the tariff act of 1922, creates an expensive and unnecessary office with additional burdens on the public funds, and submits the protective tariff policy of the nation to the participation of foreign countries, which if carried into effect, will take from or impair the constitutional prerogative of the house of representatives to control all such legislation."

Briand Quits Cabinet; Dawes To Leave London

ARISTIDE BRIAND.

III Health Forces French Statesman To Retire After Seven Years as Foreign Minister.

PARIS, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Sick and weary, Aristide Briand today asked Premier Laval to name a new foreign minister.

The grizzled veteran of the war reconstruction period informed the premier he considered it his duty, because of bad health, to give up the portfolio he has held for seven years.

The news of M. Briand's decision came first in a short semi-official note later confirmed by the foreign office. "It is assumed," the note said, "that M. Briand will leave the premier during the day that because of the state of his health, which imposes certain precautions, he thought it his duty to put the portfolio of the ministry of foreign affairs at the premier's disposal, to the end that another man might be named in his place."

Coming in the midst of a cabinet crisis, M. Briand's action was considered of the highest importance.

M. Laval has not said what reply he will make, but developments indicated the premier himself would succeed his old political teacher and that M. Briand, whose influence

TWO MEN KILLED IN ELEVATOR FALL

Edward Callaway, H. S. Bird, Journal Stereotypers, Die in 6-Story Plunge

Two men were killed and a third seriously injured early Friday night when a small elevator on which they were riding fell six floors in the Atlanta Journal building.

The dead are Edward G. Callaway, 36, and Henry S. Bird, 46. The injured man is G. Frank Jones, 37. All were employees of the Journal stereotyping department.

The three men had just completed the fourth floor of the building to the sub-basement when the small elevator, used for carrying metal plates from the stereotyping department to the pressroom, fell just as they boarded it.

Officials of the Journal company said a preliminary inquiry revealed that a small nut had come loose from a control wire. They were unable to explain the cause of the accident definitely, asserting that the main cable did not break.

The three men had just completed their day's work and were on their way home.

Culbertson Is Winner; Leads by 8,980 Points And 77 to 73 Rubbers

NEW YORK, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Ely Culbertson ended his month's contest bridge match with Sidney S. Lens in a test of rival bidding systems 8,980 points ahead. He won 77 rubbers to 73 for Lens.

Mrs. Culbertson finished the match as her husband's partner, as she started it. Until the last rubber there was doubt whether there would be a Culbertson plus for the rubbers he played, the 23d of the series in which she took part. But she was the big factor in the gain of 210 points for her husband's side on the last night, and this increased the lead for the 55 rubbers of the series in which she had played to 805 points.

Lens and his partner for the last 48 rubbers of the series, Commander Winfield Liggett Jr., won three of the six rubbers of the last session, but

WICKERSHAM DATA ADDS NEW FUEL TO MOONEY FIGHT

Commission 'Indictment' of California Court Charges Propaganda and Distortion of Justice.

BY HERBERT LITTLE.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—(UP)—The prosecution of Thomas J. Mooney and Warren K. Billings, labor leaders, growing out of the bomb explosion in San Francisco's 1916 Preparedness Day parade, was cited to the senate today as a deliberate distortion of justice, filled with law violations and unfair propaganda carried on by state authorities.

The scathing indictment of California law administration was sent to the senate by an expert subcommittee of the Wickersham law enforcement commission a year after that body disclaimed it as being unauthorized.

It was viewed here as a major turn in the campaign to free the two men now serving life terms for the crime in which 10 were killed and 40 wounded.

A pardon plea for Mooney now before Governor James Rolph, of California, is expected to be acted upon in February. Mayor James Walker, of New York City, recently journeyed to the Pacific coast to defend the action.

The legal experts, who reviewed the case as a part of the commission's investigation of lawlessness in law enforcement, say Zechariah Chafee Jr., Carl S. Stern and Walter Pollak. Their extensive report was sent to the senate in response to a special resolution adopted last month.

Wilson's Appeal.

The report reviewed in biting terms the legal proceedings which have kept labor and liberal circles in a turmoil for 15 years—the nature of which led President Wilson in 1917 to place successfully for the commutation of Mooney's sentence to a life term. Billings was sentenced to a life term in the original proceeding.

It gave these conclusions:

"There never was any scientific attempt made by the police or the prosecution to discover the perpetrator of the crime. The investigation was in reality turned over to a private detective, who used his position to cause the arrest of the defendants. Their homes were produced to a hunt for evidence to convict the arrested defendants.

"There were flagrant violations of the statutory law of California in the manner in which the defendants were arrested and held incommunicado, and in the subsequent searches of their homes to procure evidence against them.

"After the arrest of the defendants, witnesses were brought to the jail to identify them, and 'identifications' were accepted by the police and the prosecution despite the fact these witnesses were never required to put their names out of a lined paper or to demonstrate their accuracy by any other test.

"Immediately after the arrests of the defendants, there commenced a series of attempts to cause public prejudice against them, by a series of almost daily interviews given to the press by prosecuting officials.

"Witnesses were produced at the trials with information in the hands

Mrs. Ruth Dodd Bach Sues Mate for $7,500

Alleging that her husband, Julian S. Bach, New York broker, has failed to keep his part of the terms of a separation agreement, his wife, Mrs. Ruth Dodd Bach, former well-known figure in Atlanta society, Friday filed suit against him for $7,500. The action was taken in the federal court in New York.

Mrs. Bach, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gus T. Dodd, lives with her parents at 766 West Peachtree street. She was reported ill Friday night and unable to discuss the action. However, it was set out in her behalf that in the separation agreement Bach was to pay her $11,000 and in suit she alleges he failed to keep his part of the agreement.

The Bachs were married in Alabama on April 8, 1929, and separated on December 30, 1930.

Semi-Dirigible Rescues Two Fliers Stranded Overnight in Everglades

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 8.—(AP)—Rescued from the dense Florida Everglades yesterday by motor trouble in their plane, Art Rigby, pilot, and J. L. Hensley, his passenger, of Tampa, were rescued today by the Goodyear semi-dirigible Puritan. They were brought here and landed in front of the All-American air meet grandstand as an unexpected thrill for a day packed with thrills, but neither food nor water until they were taken aboard the Puritan at 3:05 o'clock this afternoon. The orange juice and water furnished them by the Puritan crew "lasted mighty good."

En route here the Tampans flew a route which taken by the Puritan crossing the Everglades. Rigby said

Ashurst Wants Donkey Kept as Party Emblem

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Because the donkey is a "braying" compendium of stately dignity, staunch endurance, fortitude and patience," Senator Ashurst, of Arizona, wants his party to keep it as its emblem.

Ashurst's advice included:

In our quadrennial presidential campaign there is more music in his raucous hee-haw than in the midnight minstrel of a nightingale. The donkey is a seriocomic philosopher, whose opinions and actions are the wisdom and the wisdom of the donkey is a sure-footed creature of epicurean tastes and a ready appetite, but whose appetite and taste, happily enough, may be assuaged and satisfied by a nibble at a desert cactus and he then is ready for another long and arid journey."

GROGER, HELD UP, SHOUTS FOR HELP AND IS SHOT DEAD

Max Jaffe, 40, Proprietor of Vine Street Store, Victim of Two Negro Bandits.

Shot down as he cried out for help, Max Jaffe, 40-year-old grocer, of 123 Vine street, died before medical aid could reach him, as the result of an attempted hold-up early Friday night.

Two negro bandits fled the scene of the shooting.

According to eye-witnesses to the shooting, a negro delivery boy working for Jaffe and another negro, both of whom were in the store shortly before closing time Friday night, were walking up to Guy Wilson, 16, the delivery boy, and inquired about the price of oranges.

As Jaffe stepped from behind the counter to wait upon the man, Wilson said, a second negro appeared within the store and, producing a revolver, pointed it at Jaffe.

"Stick 'em up and stand where you are," the bandit commanded.

Jaffe made an involuntary cry for help, whereupon the negro fired one shot, and both fled without taking time to rifle the cash register.

Louis Wood, a 10-year-old negro boy, also was in the store at the time of the shooting. He corroborated the delivery boy's story.

Jaffe made his residence upstairs above his store. Mrs. Jaffe and the two Jaffe children were at home when the shooting occurred and they rushed downstairs to find Jaffe lying on the floor of the store. He was dead before a private ambulance could reach the scene.

The Jaffe children are Esther, 9, and Sherman, 4.

Funeral services for the slain grocer will be held at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the chapel of Sam Greenberg & Company. Rabbi Harry Epstein will officiate and interment will be in Greenwood cemetery.

Besides his wife and two children he is survived by a brother, E. Jaffe, of New Haven, Conn., and a sister, Mrs. L. Pinkus, of Hartford, Conn.

Churchill Challenges Borah to Debate

NEW YORK, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Winston Churchill, former chancellor of the British exchequer, today challenged Senator William E. Borah to a debate on whether or not Russia should be recognized by capitalistic governments.

Mr. Churchill, who is in the Bahamas recuperating from injuries received when struck by an automobile here last month, conveyed the challenge through his manager, Louis J. Albert, of Cleveland. If accepted, the debate on whether or not Russia should be recognized by capitalistic governments, while Mr. Churchill will return to New York January 27. His first lecture will be the following day.

Lecture dates definitely booked include Miami, Fla., February 21. Tentative engagements include: February 17, Atlanta, Ga.

SMITH, COX, DAVIS ADVOCATE RETURN TO STATES' RIGHTS

Tariff, Farm Board Operations and Broken Promises Draw Attack at "Harmony" Jackson Day Dinner.

SPEAKERS OPPOSE PROHIBITION LAW

Three Former Standard Bearers See Sweeping Triumph for Party at Polls in November.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—(AP)—The way for harmony at tomorrow's meeting of the democratic national committee was paved tonight at a conference between Chairman Raskob and Harry Flood Byrd, of Virginia, the vice chairman, when they agreed upon a resolution on the prohibition issue.

Byrd, a former governor, who was one of those who led the fight in March against a move to commit the national committee on prohibition, drafted a resolution acceptable to Raskob, referring the whole question to the national convention without recommendation.

With this agreement, prospects of a blow-off tomorrow faded.

Tonight's party meeting ended in harmony but not without a personal row between James M. Cox and Senator Glass, of Virginia.

Cox, who spoke last, was severely taken to task by the senator after the meeting. The Virginian accused the 1920 standard bearer of raising the issue of "sectionalism" in his references about the north and the south.

Glass spoke with some vigor at Cox and gave notice he would have more to say tomorrow.

Leading off at the Jackson Day dinner, Alfred E. Smith accused the 1920 standard bearer of the economic situation has been handled. He said private relief for the unemployed is insufficient and proposed a huge federal bond issue for public works to give jobs.

John W. Davis and James M. Cox joined with him, winning enthusiastic responses from the audience of more than 2,000, in charging failure after failure to the republicans and hailing the coming democratic day.

Nothing was said of presidential candidacies. The prohibition question had its place, with Smith calling the spending of $100,000,000 annually for enforcement "a flea biter in the huge Mayflower hotel ballroom came applause and cheers, but at the same time many of his listeners heard him in silence.

"Think of the billions we are kicking away from us that would come in taxation," he proceeded. "Why, rum, gin, booze and beer are running all over the United States untaxed, and the only man that is going to be safe during March, when you have to make all those income tax figures up, is the bootlegger."

"Now, all my life I was a great believer in the theory that the cure for all the ills of democracy is more democracy, and the way to handle it

Today marks the close of the eighth voting period of the Good Samaritan Buying Campaign. More than forty churches and charities are officially participating. Each of these has officially entered the campaign by signing the nomination blank. In signing the nomination blank in behalf of the church or charity as such or in behalf of one of the sub-divisions or branches, a bonus of 10,000 votes is received. Each of these more than 40 churches or charities, therefore, which have entered start out with 10,000 votes to their credit. These are counted the totals for the first week's voting. Those who have accumulated votes during the past week, or since the campaign opened, are urged to bring them down to Campaign Headquarters, 137 Peachtree Arcade, before 6 o'clock p. m. Saturday.

The eighth awards will be announced Wednesday morning, when the four churches or charities turning in the greatest vote will share in the fourth week's division of prize money.

The GOOD SAMARITAN CAMPAIGN offers substantial financial assistance to churches or charities of the community which may be interested in sharing a portion of the $6,000.00 in cash which is to be awarded during the next six months.

The Good Samaritan Campaign is made possible by the merchants and businesses whose advertisements appear on this page. They have been inspired by the manifold good purposes its operation suggests, and churches and charities are invited to participate under the conditions suggested below.

Whatever you buy from the stores, shops and enterprises advertising on this page counts for votes—one vote for each cent spent. Ask for your coupons, which a few give—and in other cases cash register receipts or duplicate sales slips.

Headquarters are at 137 Peachtree Arcade, street level floor, and entry blanks and other information can be had there. Telephone MAin 0442.

VOTES TO BE COUNTED EACH WEEK MUST BE CAST BY SATURDAY 6 P. M.

Weekly Prizes to Churches or Charities Delivering Greatest Vote for Each Period. Totals to Be Carried Forward to Be Applied to Grand Prize Distribution at Close of Campaign.

ANNOUNCEMENT OF AWARDS EACH TUESDAY MORNING

One vote for each cent of expenditure in cash purchases from participating businesses or firms. One vote for each cent paid on account, provided such receipts are voted directly by the payee. In no case shall uncashed receipts be given to any organization or individual by participating firm to be voted by other than payee.

Businesses and merchants are required to dispose of all uncashed and unused cash register tickets, duplicate cash sales slips which might otherwise be collected by contesting organizations and voted.

The purpose and theory of the campaign is to make all tokens voted representative of actual transactions by interested individuals and organizations.

The cooperation of both the merchant and the individual is necessary to the full attainment of the purposes of the campaign—to stimulate buying . . . to speed payment of accounts . . . to generally improve community business.

The right to throw out all votes offered, which may indicate a violation of the letter and spirit of the rules and purposes of the campaign is reserved.

Representatives of organizations entered in the campaign are requested to cast their votes at the Campaign Headquarters, Main Floor Peachtree Arcade, as frequently as possible, at least once each week.

The standing of competing organizations will be announced each Tuesday. Votes for each given week must be in by Saturday noon.

Read Every Advertisement Carefully

Only then will you know what counts for votes. In some cases it is the cash register ticket which you have been customarily receiving, and disposing of. . . Now these same tickets have a definite value to your church. . . In other cases it will be the duplicate sales slips. In a few other cases it may be wrappers or containers or labels or bottle caps.

BARRETT TO HEAD CITY TRAFFIC BODY

Seven New Members Also Named to Mayor's Special Commission

Councilman Ellis B. Barrett, chairman of the traffic committee of council, Friday was named chairman of Mayor James L. Key's special traffic commission for 1932 as seven new members were appointed to that body.

Barrett was selected at the organization session of the commission, during which council was asked for an appropriation of $1,000 to install a new synchronized system, whereby amber lights would be eliminated from the flashes from red to green.

C. A. Smith was made vice chairman of the 1932 commission, and Frank K. Shaw secretary.

In addition to Barrett, the following other new members were placed on the commission:

Kenneth E. Totten, Robert E. Lee, A. S. Bird, Sam Greenberg, Captain Jack Malcom and Alderman Frank H. Reynolds.

Holder members are: E. W. Rainwater, J. W. M. Brown, J. M. Brown, B. C. Broyles, Walter Candler, Charles A. Ross, B. L. Bugg, A. L. Belle Isle, E. K. Large, Alderman Alvin Richards, E. B. Hodgson and City Electrician Pat Hendricks.

ADM. PRATT URGES UP-TO-LIMIT NAVY

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—(AP)—A navy built up to the limit of the London treaty was urged upon a senate committee today by Admiral William V. Pratt with the assertion that "no sane man can say war is not going to come some day."

He added that so optimistic a view is borne out neither by the history of the world nor by present conditions.

A bill introduced in congress by Senator Hale, of Maine, provides in general terms for a treaty limit navy, while a house measure sponsored by Representative Vinson, of Virginia, Georgia, calls for a definite $610,000,000 program.

The senate measure, the admiral said, would involve expenditure of $988,000,000 and would permit modernization of battleships, 21 submarines and numerous airplanes in addition to the construction provided by the Vinson bill.

WILLIAM E. AYCOCK TO BE BURIED TODAY

William E. Aycock, 55, of 1074 DeKalb avenue, veteran of the Spanish-American War, died Thursday night at the residence after a long period of failing health. Funeral services will be held at 11 o'clock this morning at Spring Hill, with the Rev. C. M. Liphart officiating. Interment will be in the Marietta National cemetery.

A native of Rockdale county, Mr. Aycock joined the American forces early in the war and saw service in several battles. He had lived in Atlanta for more than 30 years, and formerly was employed as a car inspector for approximately 20 years on the Georgia railroad. He was a member of the E. A. Minor lodge of F. & A. M. and of several railroad organizations.

Surviving are his wife; one daughter, Miss Weldon Aycock, and two sons, R. E. Aycock, of Atlanta, and O. T. Aycock, of Cincinnati, Ohio.

GIFFORD MAY ASK FEDERAL JOB AID

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Insisting each state can care for its own unemployed this winter, Walter S. Gifford, director of President Hoover's relief organization, said today he would favor federal help if it becomes necessary.

He made this statement before the senate manufacturing subcommittee, which also heard testimony from direct government aid to the jobless from the railway brotherhoods and clothing workers.

Tonight, William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, reported unemployment was increasing. He said more than 8,000,000 workers now have no jobs and called the total the highest in the history of the nation.

FARMERS, STATES MAY GET U. S. AID

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—(AP)—The farmer and the treasuries of the states were added by the senate today to the long list of those to be given financial help by the two-billion-dollar emergency reconstruction corporation.

As the measure moved toward a vote, expected tomorrow, these new beneficiaries were approved in amendments adopted by a record vote and a minimum of discussion.

Democrats who have put their shoulders to the enactment of the corporation agreed to forego attendance at tomorrow's important meeting of their party's national committee.

Senator Watson, Indiana, the republican leader, said "there is every hope for passage by tomorrow."

DALE JACKSON'S BODY REACHES ST. LOUIS

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 8.—(AP)—The plane bearing the body of Dale "Red" Jackson, noted endurance and stunt flyer killed Wednesday at Miami, Fla., when his plane crashed, arrived at St. Louis at 5:22 p. m. today. About 300 persons were at Lambert-St. Louis airport, where Jackson and Forest O'Brien made their endurance records.

FUNERAL PLANE HALTS BRIEFLY AT Candler Field

Through lowering clouds the aerial hearse bearing the body of Dale "Red" Jackson swooped down to and up from Candler Field Friday morning, continuing its journey to St. Louis, the home of the intrepid Jackson, co-holder of the world's airplane endurance record.

FLORIDA MAYOR NAMED IN RECALL PETITIONS

HOLLYWOOD, Fla., Jan. 8.—(AP)—Recall of Mayor William Adams is asked in 40 petitions placed in circulation here today.

The petitions are based on an affidavit filed at the city clerk's office by George Young, taxpayer, who charges the mayor with incompetence.

In order to hold a recall election it is necessary to have signatures of 50 per cent of the registered voters.

300 Philco Dealers View New Models And Enjoy Banquet and Musical Revue

More than 300 Philco dealers and officials were present Thursday night at a celebration at the Henry Grady hotel at which the new Philco models were shown, and a banquet and musical entertainment were given.

More than 300 Philco dealers assembled at the Henry Grady hotel on Thursday night to view the new models, and also to discuss one of the largest advertising campaigns ever planned by the company, as well as its $100,000 dealers prize contest.

The dealers were also guests at a banquet and a musical revue staged by the Brown Distributing Company, local Philco distributors.

Among the models was a long and short-wave combination in cabinet design which was hailed as an outstanding product of Philco engineering. Two sets of dials are employed in the new machine, which is furnished either in the seven or nine tube type.

A new patented principle of controlled acoustics was introduced in the Philco model 112X, a balanced super-heterodyne machine of 11-tube construction. The speaker is mounted on a reclining panel, sending the sound upward toward the listener. This is said to be the first radio designed so as to send the sound from the front of the speaker without the sound first striking a back wall.

The famous Eli Terry Colonial Clock was shown in an adaptation, and was widely commented on. The meeting was presided over by

UTILITY SUBSIDIARIES GO INTO BANKRUPTCY

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Jan. 8.—(AP)—Four subsidiary companies to the Morgan Utilities, Inc., bankrupt, filed voluntary petitions in bankruptcy in United States district court here today.

The Morgan Utilities Company, the holding company of the Cherokee Public Service Company, which is the holding company of the Municipal Gas Company, was placed in bankruptcy last May and J. C. Lewis was appointed receiver.

The companies petitioning for bankruptcy were: The Central Texas Ice Storage Company, which owns and sold storage plants at Brownwood, Breckenridge and Olney, Texas; the Natural Gas and Fuel Company, which operates natural gas franchises at Brownwood and Binger, Texas, and owns extensive gas field holdings; the Cherokee Public Service Company, which operates gas franchises at Waggoner and Jenks, Okla., and develops and furnishes gas for the Municipal Gas Company, of Muskogee, and the Municipal Gas Company.

M. B. Morgan, as president, and H. Wade and John Birse, signed the petitions as principal stockholders of the companies.

RAIL HEADS OPPOSE MERGERS IN EAST

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Already agreed that four systems in the east are enough, railroad executives disagree on extending these systems into New England.

J. J. Berner, president of the Chesapeake & Ohio railroad, and Patrick E. Crowley, until recently president of the New York Central, were the final word on behalf of the executives of the four major trunk lines seeking to have the interstate commerce commission revise its five-year eastern consolidation plan in favor of the railroad-sponsored four system plan.

Berner said his company hoped eventually to enter New England with a main line. In this he differed from Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore & Ohio, and W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania. The former had said he did not want to go into New England with his lines, while Atterbury expressed satisfaction with his present New England connections.

GATTIS IS INDICTED IN KILLING OF WIFE

J. R. Gattis, stationery engineer, Friday was indicted for the murder of his wife, Mrs. Estelle Gattis, in their home at 972 Pulliam street on January 2.

Gattis was held for the grand jury by a coroner's jury after testimony by his daughter, June Gattis, 6, that Gattis and his wife had been quarreling prior to the shooting. The child told the coroner's jury that the quarrel was over the mother's alleged drinking, but that her mother had not been drinking.

NOTED CANCER EXPERT TO LECTURE AT GRADY

Dr. Joseph C. Bloodgood, famous cancer expert of Johns Hopkins clinic, Baltimore, is scheduled to spend several days in Atlanta next week, during which time he will deliver lectures at the Steiner clinic of Grady hospital. The public will be permitted to attend the addresses, definite dates for which have not been fixed.

The visit to Atlanta of Dr. Bloodgood, results was largely from the persuasion of Senator William J. Harris, after the noted specialist had appeared before a senate committee considering the Harris bill to provide a nationwide research into cancer by the United States public health service.

At the office of Dr. R. H. Pike Friday it was said that the exact time of Dr. Bloodgood's arrival had not yet been definitely determined.

JOHN WILLIE WRIGHT FACES NEW CHARGES

Troubles of John Willie Wright, who is said to have been turned up to federal officers by a former employee, multiplied Friday when Solicitor D. P. Phillips, of the city court of Decatur, took out whisky law accusations totaling 30 counts and involving approximately half that number of transactions over a period of six months.

Wright has been sentenced to 12 months on the Fulton county grand jury indictment of criminal code of Atlanta, on a liquor charge, and he has federal charges to face on his release from the county. It was said. Officers said that they found a business-like ledger of alleged liquor accounts in Wright's home, and that an investigation is under way on the strength of information obtained from the book.

Knoxville Paper Loses Court Plea

FRANKFORT, Ky., Jan. 8.—(AP)—The Knoxville News-Sentinel today was refused a writ to prohibit Circuit Judge Henry R. Prewitt barring its reporters from attending the William Hightower trial at Mount Sterling, in an opinion announced by Chief Justice Richard Priest Dietzman, of the Kentucky court of appeals.

The whole court concurred in the opinion which followed arguments yesterday in behalf of the News-Sentinel by Newton D. Baker, former secretary of war, and Allen Prewitt, of Frankfort, 28, son of the Mount Sterling jurist.

PRESS AGENTS' PLEAS SCORED BY PUBLISHER

COLUMBIA, S. C., Jan. 8.—(AP)—John A. Park, publisher of the Raleigh (N. C.) Times, today told the South Carolina Press Institute that the greatest need of the newspaper industry in the cock-eyed era is fewer press agents and more paid advertising.

He was speaking at the first institute held by the South Carolina Press Association.

Pointing out that few persons realized newspapers got 80 per cent of their revenue from advertising, Mr. Park said it was impossible to reduce operating expenses overnight, as news and feature services, supplies and efficient personnel must be kept in line.

Merchants who are clamoring loudest for reductions in advertising rates are going through the air in radio co-operation and free publicity in times of prosperity, Mr. Park said.

ONLY ONE GEORGIAN PAID IN '28 CAMPAIGN

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Mainer Lee Toler, member of The Constitution society department, was the only Georgian on the pay rolls of the democratic national committee during the 1928 presidential campaign. The pay lists were filed with the clerk of the house of representatives on January 3 by James W. Gerard, national committee treasurer.

Mrs. Toler, wife of John T. Toler, circulation manager of The Constitution, who lives at 749 Peachtree street, Atlanta, was paid for a period of 10 weeks at the democratic headquarters in New York for the success of the party nominee.

COUZENS ASKS PROBE OF RADIO ADVERTISING

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Chairman Couzens, of the senate interstate commerce committee, thinks there is entirely too much advertising going through the air in radio programs and he's moving to stop it.

In a resolution introduced in the senate, he asked that the radio commission survey the extent of the advertising and report on the feasibility of government ownership or operation.

MINISTER BOUND OVER IN SLAYING AT STILL

PALATKA, Fla., Jan. 8.—(AP)—The Rev. E. H. McGaha, militant Christian minister, was bound over to the Putnam county grand jury today on a manslaughter charge in connection with the recent fatal shooting of John W. Malone, during a raid on a moonshine still. He was remanded to jail in default of $5,000 bond.

"Problematical Value" Put on Bryan's Estate

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 8.—(AP)—The estate of William Jennings Bryan has dwindled from $68,000 to a condition of "problematical value," it was disclosed in bankruptcy court today in connection with the involuntary bankruptcy brought against Bryan's daughter, Mrs. Grace Bryan Hargreaves, of Hollywood.

William Jennings Bryan Jr., a son, testified as administrator of the estate that the bulk of his father's holdings was in Florida real estate and was of "problematical value."

The bankruptcy petition was filed by the American Pipe & Steel Company with a claim for $2,790 growing out of an oil venture of Mrs. Hargreaves in the Venice, Cal., oil fields.

Young Bryan testified he had dispersed $21,000 since his father's death and that the balance of the estate was in real estate.

ATLANTA, GA., JAN. 9, 1932.

BETTER GO SLOW.

The United States is treading on dangerous ground in becoming involved in the Manchurian situation to the extent of joining other nations in notes of warning to Japan which are tantamount to threats.

It is none of our business until some of our rights have been infringed upon. We have nothing to gain by dabbling in it, and the further we get in the more serious our complications are likely to be.

The meddling of the state department has already put us in it up to our necks, but fortunately we are not yet so deeply involved that we cannot get out and stay out.

Japan has sponsored the development of Manchuria through a period of modernization unprecedented in the history of the world. It has cost her hundreds of millions of dollars and she is possessed of iron-clad treaty rights.

She is not going to get out—and in all probability it is better for the rest of the world that she not do so.

We have enough to occupy our attention at home without becoming embarrassed across the oceans.

The United States and Japan are to be among the dominant nations of the future. For their own good and that of the rest of the world mutual regard and respect should exist between them and everything possible should be done to maintain the friendly relations that have existed for so long between the two countries.

The less the United States becomes involved in the intricacies and insinuations of oriental controversies, the better off we will be.

THE TAXPAYER "THE GOAT."

The refusal of the State railroad commission to issue a license to a truck line for the purpose of hauling cotton over the highways of that state is a progressive step toward protecting the railroads from unfair competition.

The new Texas truck law gives the commission wide latitude in regulating motorized competition of the railroads. It cuts down the speed of trucks, regulates their length and puts a load limit into effect. It resulted in the immediate elimination of approximately 400 trucks from the roads of that state.

The general assembly in adopting the law had in mind both the injustice to the railroads, as the heaviest taxpayers in the state, in permitting their chief competition to use, practically free of taxation, the highways which had been constructed with tax money.

In declining the request for the proposed cotton truck line, the commission emphasized that motor trucks are "a menace to life" and "are tearing up the highways."

During the past year many states have taken action of various kinds looking to the curbing of the indiscriminate use of their highways by buses and trucks. Foreign trucks are now required to pay a registration fee in Nebraska and Indiana; the Ohio public utilities commission has denied many permits to motor transport companies on the ground that the highways sought to be used were already too crowded, and in Massachusetts a movement is now on foot to require the payment of a fee on every truck used on the roads of that state.

By far, however, the most advanced step towards the elimination of unjust competition to the railroads is contained in the new Texas law and the rulings that have been issued under it by the railroad commission of that state. Cognizance is taken of both the threat to the source from which a large per cent of taxes are received and to the damage done to the highways built for the convenience and pleasure of all the people.

In the long run it is the people and not the railroads who will suffer from a continuation of the present tax-free policy towards motorized transportation. Had the railroads not been deprived of the freight which has been handled by its government-favored competition, the recent raise in freight rates granted to the railroads by the interstate commerce commission would in all probability not have been necessary.

As it is, this increase will be passed on by the shippers to the ultimate purchasers, and the taxpayers will eventually be called on to pay for the relief the railroads had to have because of unfair competition.

It is high time for the legislatures of every state in the Union to squarely face this problem, with the realization that sooner or later, either in higher prices of merchandise, or increased taxation because of the inability of the railroads to pay as much as they do now toward the upkeep of government, the taxpayer will be the goat.

THE ROOSEVELT SNIPERS.

Sound warning is given to the democrats by Congressman Howard, of Nebraska, in the caution that support of "favorite son" candidacies will be playing into the hands of "the power trust and the international bankers in their effort to prevent the nomination of Franklin D. Roosevelt."

With "nine democrats out of ten, in nine states in ten" in favor of Roosevelt's nomination, the Nebraska congressman finds it difficult to believe that his defeat can be accomplished but fears that "the damnable deed may be done."

Unquestionably the Roosevelt strength has reached avalanche proportions. All efforts to stem its growth in the open having failed, his opponents have now resorted to undercover tactics in a desperate endeavor to impede what now seems to be his steady progress to nomination and election.

Invariably these poorly disguised attempts can be traced either to the eastern power trust or to other Wall Street interests, termed by Congressman Howard as "the international bankers," their efforts being aided and abetted by republican newspapers, with whom it is now a matter of "anything to stop Roosevelt."

It is not difficult to reason the basis for this opposition. Governor Roosevelt is known to oppose the public pillage which has been going on in the guise of holding companies by which the securities of subsidiaries are being either seriously impaired or practically wiped out. It is a condition that has grown up during recent republican administrations and those responsible for it know that it will be stopped with Roosevelt as president.

Democrats know that this is no time for the party to accept these international bankers and holding company pillagers in the role of advisers.

The investigation now going on in Washington has disclosed the fact that the "international bankers" reaped a profit of hundreds of millions of dollars in the widespread sale of foreign securities of doubtful value, leaving an unsuspecting public, which thought it was taking good advice, to hold the bag.

Advice from such sources may be welcome to the republicans, but not to the democrats.

TURNING FOR THE BETTER.

As business completes its annual housecleaning and lays plans for another year, it becomes increasingly apparent that the economic prospect grows brighter.

Every evidence leads now to the conclusion that business levels during 1932 will be higher than in 1931. Even should they not reach the level of preceding year, the very fact of an upward turn means that the sway of the depression is broken and that the necessary adjustments will witness the gradual return to normalcy.

Underlying facts give better assurance of the turn toward the better than do the visible indications. Stocks of merchandise on hand are so depleted as to assure renewed industrial activity. Rates and wages are being steadily adjusted. Technical improvements, certain to bring about sound economies and increased buying power, are going steadily forward.

The railroad situation, and the rail bonds problem, is receiving intelligent handling.

The holiday buying in practically every state was above expectations and in many it approached the figures of the years of greater prosperity.

Improvement must, of necessity, be slow, but undoubtedly in agriculture, mining, manufacturing, commerce and finance the strain is being gradually lessened.

The trying days are not over as yet, but at least there is the consolation that the period of descent and stagnation seems to be definitely behind and that the signs of renewed activity justify the belief that we are finally on the upward road back to normalcy.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN.

"Liberty, What Crimes!"

In America we have prohibition that is to say prohibition is on the statute books. Dr. Hoover called it a "noble experiment," others decry it as a sort of barbaric infraction of personal liberty. But what would we say of a country where it is compulsory to drink wine? For such is the situation in Spain. When I visited that wondrously beautiful land a few months ago the new decree had just entered in force. With every meal one was required to order and to pay for half a bottle of Spanish wine.

It did not matter, of course, whether you drank it or not. That was up to you. The main thing was that you paid for it.

Being used to take a little from time to time for my stomach's sake, as St. Paul advised Timothy, I was sorely disappointed. It was poor stuff they served me. Any costermonger or cab driver in Paris would have thrown a squint into the waiter's face. Perhaps the Spaniards drink better stuff at home. I sincerely hope so. But in their restaurants they certainly don't make for increasing the national prestige in Sweden by the way, the rules are reversed. If you want to drink anything stronger than milk chocolate, you are required to order a meal with it.

A strange world we live in. I see the day coming when health authorities in some country or other go on the rampage for the good of humanity or for the fattening of the national exchequer in Sweden by the way, where one is required to chew and swallow a required number of times. The wonder is that such a law doesn't exist already.

Georgia Heroes Of the World War

By Sergeant L. E. Jaekel
(All Rights Reserved)

EDWARD J. LENAHEAN. (Army Serial No. 553832), corporal, Company 8, eighth machine gun battalion, third division, American expeditionary force. Awarded the distinguished service cross for extraordinary gallantry in action with the enemy near Montfaucon, France, October 7, 1918. Corporal Lenahean, a runner, repeatedly carried messages through heavy barrage. On one occasion, when an enemy shell struck a dugout occupied by his own men, he bravely crawled, carrying two wounded comrades, to the trench, where he was killed by a shell.

Residence at enlistment, Savannah, Georgia.

Art Davis, Lansing, Mich., pushed his Waco airplane over the 15-mile distance at an average speed of 140.351 miles an hour to win the French trophy race for a prize of $25 or less horsepower. Karl Voeltz, Pittsburgh, was right behind Davis in a Wright-motored Traveler, with a 100-horsepower engine. Livingston averaged 141.684 miles an hour to win the trophy for which was donated by the government of Louisiana.

Livingston won by the length of his plane from John P. Morris, Pittsburgh, while Barton Stevenson, Kansas City, was third. Both Morris and Stevenson flew Monocoups.

Art Aramian, Bloomington, Ill., in a Monocoup, won the Italian trophy race at an average speed of 120.175 miles an hour for the 15 miles. Howard B. Ailor, Miami, in a Waco, was second, and John K. Lagrone, Kansas Mo., also in a Waco, third.

The Italian trophy race brought its share of color to a day's performance that included dazzling piloting in the sky by civilian stunt pilots, equaling the acrobatic feats of army and marine corps planes, and virtually perfect formation flying by army bombers from Langley field, Virginia. The navy planes were from the aircraft carrier Lexington and the marines from Quantico, Va.

Daring night flying, during a mild aerial attack on the city of Miami by service and civilian planes, drew scores of thousands of spectators to the city of Miami.

The event called for detonation of 2,000 pounds of dynamite to simulate exploding bombs. Crawling over the wreckage of the plane to the north, including 20 "society fliers" from New York, were expected here tomorrow.

Air meet officials considered favorable the proposal to continue the air meet through Sunday in order to let late arrivals participate in various races and exhibitions. Such procedure would follow the plan of the previous year, when it was decided that the largest meet in the world from point of attendance.

TEN AVIATORS HELD AT MACON BY WEATHER

MACON, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Fog which grounded 10 aviators here today as they flew from various points north of here to the Miami air races near the earthbound today with little prospect of a getaway before tomorrow.

The party which gathered here by twos and threes included Arthur J. Bert, Mac Corling and H. M. Berry, of Chicago; Cliff of Pittsburg; and Mr. and Mrs. Gus Lutz, of Curtiss Wright Flying Service; George A. Shealey, Atlanta; C. A. Hinch Jr., Cincinnati; Robert D. Strauss, Chattanooga; and William Roseler, Cincinnati.

All complained of headwinds and low ceilings throughout their flight southward.

LEANDER C. GENTLE TO BE BURIED TODAY

City leaders will pay last tribute to Leander C. Gentle Sr. at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon at the First Presbyterian church on Marietta road, with the Rev. M. W. Walraven and the Rev. G. C. Light officiating. Interment will be in Highland cemetery, near the church.

Active pallbearers will be Mayor James L. Key, Solicitor-General John A. Boykin, Chief of Police James L. Beavers, Dr. Thomas H. Hancock, W. R. Bentley and C. A. Drew. Hundreds of friends of Gentle's "champion father" are expected to gather at the services.

Mr. Gentle was instantly killed Wednesday afternoon when he was struck by a Southern railway engine at the North Avenue crossing. He was widely known throughout the nation as being the father of 29 children, 19 of whom survive him. He also is known as a father of several grandchildren.

The subcommittee also agreed to a favorable report on the nomination of J. Calvin Chestnut, of Baltimore, as a successor to Boyer on the district bench, it was said.

HOLLYWOOD IN PERSON

BY MOLLIE MERRICK.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Jan. 8.—Tallulah Bankhead, still luncheon table conversation in Hollywood, is about ready to make her first real coast movie. This will be a filmation of Thomas Burke's novel, "Thunder Below."

We shall see the alluring Tallulah in white wagon, with a crowd of engineers in a South American scene, with no opposition for miles around other than native girls.

And what woman hasn't, some time or other, imagined herself in exactly this situation? However, here's hoping that the picture will be better than the three that Miss Bankhead has previously attempted.

Paul Lukas has been given the lead in "Thunder Below," and can always be depended upon for a good performance. His last was with Ruth Chatterton in "Tomorrow and Tomorrow."

The entire cast of "Lysistrata" (with the exception of the 5-year-old boy) was placed under arrest the other night, after the play was finished. Nance O'Neill, chronicled as the most dignified woman who ever graced a patrol wagon, was most indignant of all the cast, as she had pre-supposed that Los Angeles was as broad-minded as New York, Chicago and Philadelphia, cities where the comedy has already been presented without protest.

Well, anyway, the management announced at once that the play would go on, on the day they were arrested each evening.

Which made cynical Hollywood indulge in a quiet sardonic laugh, and wonder if some active press agent were at work.

down into the thick head-high growth of grass. Rigney and Escalante climbed aboard.

Everglades rose from the night of exposure in the Everglades but neither was injured when the plane came down.

Rigney was greeted by his wife in a fond embrace as he stepped from the rescue ship.

It was a night of battling mosquitoes that the fliers spent in the Everglades. They were in the little hope of being rescued. When they first landed they soon were convinced they could not hope to wait for a rescue. They decided to "just sit and hope while waiting."

RESCUE TAKES SPOTLIGHT AT MIAMI AIR RACES

The rescue of two airplane passengers from the land and waterlocked Everglades brought a new thrill today to the thousands of spectators watching speed and stunt events at the annual flying races.

The rescue took the edge off the races and exhibitions of the day, which included the running of three 15-mile races for trophies donated by French troops and civilians.

Art Davis, Lansing, Mich., pushed his Waco airplane over the 15-mile distance at an average speed of 140.351 miles an hour to win the French trophy race for a prize of $25 or less horsepower. Karl Voeltz, Pittsburgh, was right behind Davis in a Wright-motored Traveler, with a 100-horsepower engine.

Livingston averaged 141.684 miles an hour to win the trophy for which was donated by the government of Louisiana.

Livingston won by the length of his plane from John P. Morris, Pittsburgh, while Barton Stevenson, Kansas City, was third. Both Morris and Stevenson flew Monocoups.

Art Aramian, Bloomington, Ill., in a Monocoup, won the Italian trophy race at an average speed of 120.175 miles an hour for the 15 miles. Howard B. Ailor, Miami, in a Waco, was second, and John K. Lagrone, Kansas Mo., also in a Waco, third.

The Italian trophy race brought its share of color to a day's performance that included dazzling piloting in the sky by civilian stunt pilots, equaling the acrobatic feats of army and marine corps planes, and virtually perfect formation flying by army bombers from Langley field, Virginia. The navy planes were from the aircraft carrier Lexington and the marines from Quantico, Va.

Daring night flying, during a mild aerial attack on the city of Miami by service and civilian planes, drew scores of thousands of spectators to the city of Miami.

The event called for detonation of 2,000 pounds of dynamite to simulate exploding bombs. Crawling over the wreckage of the plane to the north, including 20 "society fliers" from New York, were expected here tomorrow.

Air meet officials considered favorable the proposal to continue the air meet through Sunday in order to let late arrivals participate in various races and exhibitions. Such procedure would follow the plan of the previous year, when it was decided that the largest meet in the world from point of attendance.

TEN AVIATORS HELD AT MACON BY WEATHER

MACON, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Fog which grounded 10 aviators here today as they flew from various points north of here to the Miami air races near the earthbound today with little prospect of a getaway before tomorrow.

The party which gathered here by twos and threes included Arthur J. Bert, Mac Corling and H. M. Berry, of Chicago; Cliff of Pittsburg; and Mr. and Mrs. Gus Lutz, of Curtiss Wright Flying Service; George A. Shealey, Atlanta; C. A. Hinch Jr., Cincinnati; Robert D. Strauss, Chattanooga; and William Roseler, Cincinnati.

All complained of headwinds and low ceilings throughout their flight southward.

Health Talks

BY DR. WILLIAM BRADY.

THE DANGERS OF SWIMMING POOLS.

In a recent radio broadcast from the New York state department of health, the speaker discussed swimming pools and their effects on health, and said that prolonged exposure of bathers to cold water may "deplete their vitality" and "induce bacterial infection."

Said the speaker: "While I shall probably never see the picture, still it is desirable to know that it was as splendidly treated in your hands."

A visit to the Radio-Pathe studio resulted in waiting for the well-known actor, who was "making up" the screen great, try his hand at transforming Richard Dix from a young man of 26 to an old man of 81.

Irene Dunne was there, too, who photographed in stage varying from 20 to 61.

All this for a new picture, "The March of a Nation," that will be produced very soon, with the same director and leads who made such a success of "Cimarron."

I refer, of course, to Richard Dix, Irene Dunne and Wesley Ruggles, the director.

Here's broad-mindedness for you. Alice Joyce and Tom Moore, once husband and wife, have left Hollywood to make a fresh change of scene.

Since their divorce each has married again. And Tom Moore twice, if I am not mistaken. (His second wife is Rene Adoree, and his present wife is a girl girl who is making a success of "Cimarron.")

At the rate Hollywood likes both Alice Joyce and Tom Moore, who have always remained good friends through all their difficulties, and wishes them both the best of luck. (Copyright, 1932, for The Constitution.)

Letters From a Bald-Headed Dad to a Flapper Daughter

BY ROBERT QUILLEN.

My Dear Louise:

Since you are a normal girl, with a normal girl's standard of values, I suppose that your chief ambition is to make a good impression on young and unattached males.

Trying to give one of your sex advice on the subject may seem like teaching a duck to swim, but I can at least show you a weak spot in the enemy's line.

All young men, except stupid ones afflicted with swell-head and rotten ones hardened by vice, are a little afraid of girls.

They aren't afraid, of course, in the sense that one is afraid of a tiger, but only as a man who prizes his dignity is afraid to play a parlor game that seems designed to make him ridiculous.

They are afraid because they don't understand girls. They wish to appear as the best, and they have an instinct telling them that they are being judged and found wanting. They suspect girls of play-acting and feel awkward and foolish because they must play-act as well or spoil the scene.

Even a sensible and well-poised youngster, experienced enough to be sure of himself in any company, feels some apprehension when left alone with a strange girl.

She may try to seem high-brow and talk about things a regular guy wouldn't choose as topics of conversation. Maybe he knows more about them than she does, but dragging them into a conversation by the ears seems an affectation and he resents being made a party to it. He knows she is showing off and the situation seems silly. He wonders if she thinks him dumb enough to be impressed by that sort of thing.

Or perhaps she is stupid and gets by only because she is pretty and easy to handle. Her chatter is without meaning, her face without expression, her eyes as vacant as a doll's. Her silly pretense of interest bores him and he feels ashamed of her and of himself.

Experiences like these make him wary of all girls, but they make the way easy for a girl who is sensible and genuine. She is the girl who says "put on!" How his heart warms to the girl who talks and laughs and acts as a natural girl should!

Do you know why? Because she makes him feel at ease. Because he can do his part without play-acting or feeling ridiculous. Because, in short, he can retain his self-respect and his dignity.

Regular fellows can be happy only when they can be natural, and they are grateful to a girl who makes it easy for them by leading the way.

Love,
DAD.

GOOD FORTUNE FAVORS REDDY.
By THORNTON W. BURGESS.

Be always ready with your best. When Fortune puts you to test.

Reddy Fox was having a strange experience. Yes, sir, he was so. He was having a ride and as you know, Foxes are not in the habit of riding. Goodness, no! I should say not! But Reddy was having a ride. He was having a ride and at the same time escaping from a hunter and his dog who had almost caught him. Then along a road through the woods had come a sled drawn by two horses. Unseen by the driver Reddy had jumped onto that sled, which was very low, and crept under some straw that was there. Now he was being carried he knew not where. Nor did he much care so long as it was away from that hunter and his dog. Suddenly Reddy picked up two sharp black ears of his. The sled stopped and he heard voices, the voices of men. They were three hunters, and with them were two dogs. They were asking the driver of that sled for a ride, for he was headed in the direction they wanted to go. Over the side he went, leaping as far as he could, and away at the best speed his still weary legs could muster. Such a racket as broke out behind him. The dogs yelled. The dogs began to bark! Once more Reddy was fleeing for his life, this time with two dogs behind him.

It was well that Reddy had had that rest, for these dogs were fresh and one of them was very fast. Reddy knew at once that he was being followed, and he was being followed to find a safe retreat, and that quickly, for in his weakened condition he could not for the second time that day make a long and successful run.

One thing at least his good fortune continued—he knew where he was. Yes, sir, he knew just where he was. He was, dashing through the Old Orchard. That road the sled had been following passed Farmer Brown's, and it was at the edge of the Old Orchard that those hunters had stopped the sled.

Through the Old Orchard raced Reddy and behind him raced the two dogs, baying in great excitement. Over in the farmhouse Bower the Hound and Flip the Terrier were barking in great excitement and scratching on the back door to be let out and join in the hunt. Running after the dogs came the three hunters. They had not shot at Reddy because he had come from them by surprise when he leaped from the sled, and by the time any of them had

FRIENDLY COUNSEL

BY CAROLINE CHATFIELD

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

We are learning some valuable lessons from this world-wide calamity which we euphemistically call "the depression." Possibly none more valuable than the lesson of thrift. I asked a housewife how she defined the word. Said she: "I can't define it, but I can demonstrate it. I used to make cranberry jelly, strain it, and discard the hulls. Now I save the hulls, mix with them some raisins and a few sliced apples and give my family a pie for dessert, which they call a good pie. That's thrift." I asked another, an affluent woman, how she defined the word. She replied: "Systematic and intelligent planning of expenditures with reference to income." And another, a poor woman, thought thrift was making a dollar go a long way. Another thought thrift was "an ugly necessity for the poor, a useless exercise for the well-to-do and a disgraceful one for the rich." But the funny answer came from an unexpected source and this is it: "Thrift," she snorted, "is a decent word used by indigent people who want to disguise their stingy, parsimonious habits. Aren't they all right, aren't they all wrong?"

Thrift is a proper balance between what is spent and what is saved, an amount always kept within the current income; a balance that is maintained by judicious spending and judicious saving.

The matter of balanced spending and saving is one of the most important things in the training of children. The average young person of today, born and reared in the prosperous years since the great war, has no conception of the hard problem of earning money, or of the difficulty of keeping money or of the necessity of saving money. Such young people know nothing of the proper spending or of the proper saving. They are destined to learn, and along with them their parents, that once knew but conveniently forgot. The days of "come easy and go easy" are temporarily vanished. Fortunes are swept away. Those that were rich are only well-to-do. Those that were well-to-do are, in many instances, poor, and those that were poor are destitute. "Where is the money?" the ignorant ask. "It is no more."

The man that wouldn't pay the extra five cents for the pound of nuts may have some. The woman that uses the cranberry hulls may have some. The stingy people who would take the penny to cover up their penurious habits may have a reserve. The woman who believed that the stretching of her dollar in good days would take care of her bad days may stretch it even further now. But the rank and file that bought on credit, more than they could pay for, and bought again before the last installment was paid, they are learning that the luxuries of yesterday are still luxuries today, and not necessities, as they once supposed. They are learning that living within one's income is a bounden duty and living beyond it is a sin for which they must atone, it may be in sack-cloth and ashes.

Thrift is a homely virtue, but like all homely things it can be glorified. Thrift is a beautiful virtue, but like all beautiful things it can be abused. Thrift is a high ideal and like all high things it must be reached by a long way.

Culbertson on Contract

An Inefficient System

BY ELY CULBERTSON,

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

It has long been my contention that bad systems are at the root of losses at the bridge table and it is only my conviction that the so-called Official System of Contract is inefficient that caused me to engage in my match with Mr. Sidney S. Lenz, which through 150 rubber system in comparison with the Approach-Forcing System of Contract bidding. The inefficiency of the Official System was demonstrated particularly in connection with Slam bidding very early in the match. A number of Slams were made which, under the Approach-Forcing System, would have presented no difficulties in the bidding, but were not bid by our opponents, Messrs. Lenz and Jacoby, not because they were not good players, but because their system did not function effectively. Take, for example, the second hand of the tenth rubber.

1—Mr. Lenz chooses the correct bid. A longer suit should always be bid in preference to a shorter biddable suit.

2—Thus far the bidding follows the principles of the Approach-Forcing System. Mr. Jacoby's hand fully justifies a Forcing Takeout.

3—Also in accord with the Approach-Forcing principles. After a Forcing bid or a Forcing Takeout has been made, both partners should keep the bidding low, so that all information may be exchanged at as low a range of bidding as possible.

4—This bid also is correct. The extra length in the heart suit is shown.

He must find shelter near at hand. He headed straight for Farmer Brown's doorway. He knew by the sounds that Bower and Flip were in the house, so there was nothing to fear from them. Perhaps he could find shelter under the barn. Anyway, it seemed his one chance. Out of the Old Orchard into the yard he raced, and there was the barn door open just wide enough for him to squeeze through! He didn't even notice Farmer Brown's boy standing close by. He made straight for that opening.

New Disaster Threatens Louisiana as Mississippi Suffering Grows.

By the Associated Press.

As the Tallahatchie river in north-west Mississippi yesterday poured its devastating waters into the far reaches of its valley, the weather bureau at New Orleans issued an advisory bulletin predicting flood stages this month on the Atchafalaya and the Black river in Louisiana and a stage of 45 feet, or 5 feet above flood level, on the Ouachita river at Monroe.

The Ouachita at Monroe yesterday registered 43.5 feet, with the greatest concern of the Louisiana situation centered there. Several hundred families have been made refugees from their homes on the outskirts of Monroe and in the Ouachita valley near Monroe.

To check the backwaters entering West Monroe and permit pumping out of the water in homes there, the Illinois Central railroad system began dumping up Black bayou. Emergency levees were being built by the city to move household goods in the threatened area.

Shivering, ill-clad and underfed refugees, where the winding path would permit, made their way into Charleston, Philippi, Glendora and to the far eastern fringe of the flood in flat-bottomed wagons, horseback and afoot.

In straggling lines they carried crates of chickens, cats, dogs and babies. They were carrying their belongings and in some cases their lives. In some cases they were carrying their lives.

Martin's Summer

By Vicki Baum.

CHAPTER VIII.

Suddenly she let go of the dog, who had been straining impatiently at his collar and whining hoarsely. He shot out furiously into the park like a white streak and broke into a clamor of barks. Puck seized Martin's hand with a quick, unexpected movement and bit the ball of his thumb. He started at the pain and cried out.

"What's the matter? Why do you do that?" he asked, shaking his hand to and fro. He held it to the lamp and there was the imprint of her teeth in a small oval that began to turn blue. Martin was vexed. Puck stood with her arms hanging by her sides, looking down intently at his hand. It was large and strong and the finger-tips were puckered with long swimming.

"I don't know what's the matter with me. I'm in a temper," she murmured. She went into a corner and stood there with her face to the wall. "Go away," she said into the wall. "But come back. Oh—no, don't. I don't know myself what I want—"

Martin did not like this sort of thing. Scenes drove him distracted. He went up to Puck and putting his hand on her shoulders he turned her around. There were big tears on her cheeks. Martin bent down, gave her a kiss and drew her head to his breast. This was very simple, very natural. Puck remained leaning against him. She felt him breathing, heard his heart beat. There could not be a safer refuge than Martin's breast. She shut her eyes and gave a deep sigh. Martin for his part was not altogether pleased with the situation, but he did not know how he was to escape from it.

So they were still standing in the same position against the wooden partition when a man walked in the hut and said, "Good evening." In a high, pitched, pleasant voice. Martin pushed Puck a little to one side and made a bow. He was so used to going about in swimming costume or bathing cloak and he was of so simple a disposition that the strange encounters of the evening perturbed him very little. He gazed at the man and waited for him to speak. The man was extremely thin with a yellow, sickly look. Indeed, without really being so, he looked deformed. His forehead was high and certain refinement that even Martin Heil observed it.

"I am Baron Doodersberg," he said. "I am Dr. Heil," replied Martin. Puck felt that a further explanation was needed. "This is papa," she said. "And this is the boy that I went out in the boat to look for during the storm. You remember him?"

"This Little Weasel of mine has a passion for saving life," the baron said in his pleasant voice. "Countless people owe their lives to her. It is his grand passion. Falls from Iron Tooth, avalanches, snake bites, storms on the lake, epidemics of scarlet fever—they are just what Little Weasel likes. I hope you are rested after your dangerous exploit? Do you know by the way what gave the lake its name? They say that in the middle ages 24 maidens of Wazental walked together into the lake to avoid worse dangers during a hostile raid. Now they lie in wait at the bottom for young men who swim over the lake. And so you are warned, Dr. Heil. And now, Puck, mama sent me here to accompany your guest to the boat. You are wanted indoors."

Puck took hold of Martin's hand, the one she had bitten, and rubbed her cheek against it with the tenderness of a little animal.

Martin murmured something confused and unintelligible, and drawing his borrowed bathing cloak more tightly about him, followed the baron out of the hut. Outside there was a magic transformation. The motionless air was warm and clear. An unnaturally large moon swam in a sea of its own light. The lake lapped with a gentle sleepy sound at the foot of the promontory on which stood the castle, white among the tree tops. On the other side the shore was edged with a chain of light. That was Fraussee. There was dancing at the Big Petermann. Music was being played there.

Martin gave a slight shudder. His blood had got thin and chilled beneath his brown taut skin during the last weeks. The baron cast a glance at the tall figure beside him and pointing to his own bent shadow preceding them over the grass, he said:

"I'm afraid I can't help you out with any clothes. Our figures are too unlike. You have the advantage of me there."

Martin, overcome by the necessity of carrying on a conversation with the celebrated author of philosophical works, replied: "Very good of you." He saw his shadow make a bow that quite impressed him.

"I must ask you to make allowances for my Little Weasel if her manners are not all they should be," said Doodersberg after a short silence. "A first acquaintance with her is apt to be surprising. She is very far from the conventional mold."

"Yes, indeed," said Martin, smiling softly in the radiant moonlight.

"The blame, or the credit is mine for bringing her up as I have. I lived for many years in the tropics, you see. I brought back with me besides malaria a complete dissatisfaction with Europeans. I write books about it—but whoever altered men by books? Good Lord, I've no delusions about the Promethean might of the printed word. But as for Puck, my Little Weasel, she at least has been brought up by me after my own mind. Brought up, my dear sir, that is just what she hasn't been. I wished to see whether the soft and primitive woman of the tropics—with all the enchantment of her simple unspoiled instincts—could not flourish over here too. Well, there you see the result. She is a delightful child. I, at least, find her delightful."

As this sounded like a question, Martin replied with alacrity: "Yes, indeed." He was in excellent humor. He had had a meal.

"It may, of course, be objected that such a little girl runs a risk, a greater risk than another, when she arrives at maturity. She is already a little woman at 16. There is something on the alert in her now. Well, there is nothing now to rely upon but her instinct. We must rely on that, there you have it—the test of my theory. We see every day the kind of individual that comes of a generation whose instincts are starved. You look at me with surprise, my dear sir. But surely inspiration springs from dissatisfaction with existing conditions. One may preach the religion of the body, even when one's own body is in default. Believe me, great achievements always result from such deficiencies." Doodersberg smiled with a certain constraint. Martin was silent in consternation at such a flow of words.

"Are you actually a scientist, or is the title of doctor merely an ornament?"

"I am a chemist," said Martin, and felt that he now had firm ground beneath his feet. "I have always been attracted by the practical side of chemistry. I am weak on the theoretic side, but have always been a dabbler and an experimentalist. And I quickly found my specialty. Photochemistry. I was in the Olympia war. I had had luck, unfortunately, with those of the staff who had been recently appointed were dismissed owing to an amalgamation with another firm. Now there's nothing for it but to wait."

"I see," said the baron politely. "Are you anything else in prospect?"

"Yes, of course. I have excellent prospects. I can't say anything about that as yet, but I am expecting a decision every day—I am expecting a letter."

"Indeed?" said the baron vaguely, a trifle bored. "That is splendid. Listen, there's the Little Weasel singing up there. She sings like children and negroes. All that she experiences she makes into songs. Do you hear?"

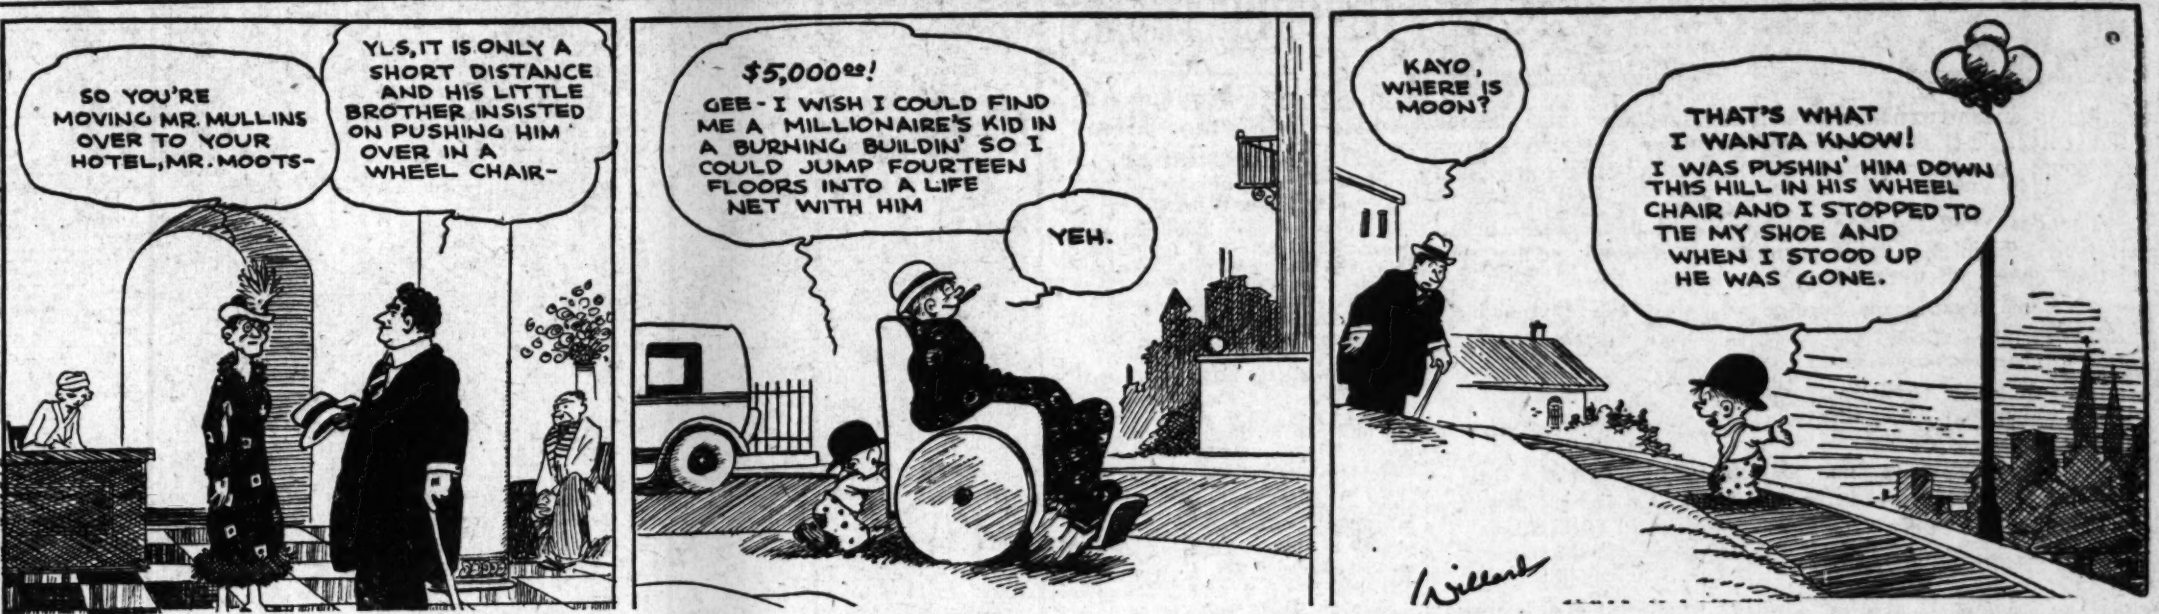

Martin listened, smiling; he could hear her voice quite distinctly. It was sweet and of a remarkable flexibility. He would have liked very much to hear the words, but they were lost in the murmur of the trees and came to him only as a succession of melodious notes. While Martin was standing thus, listening attentively with parted lips, the baron had loosed the boat from its post in the boathouse.

'Big Six' Prep League Organized To Replace Former 'Big Four'

FIVE SCHOOLS TO CONTINUE IN DIXIE LEAGUE

A half dozen coaches sat down at a luncheon Friday at the Atlanta Athletic Club and accomplished more constructive work in a couple of hours than the Southern conference convention did in five days.

The coaches sat down with pencil and paper and worked out their schedules, fixed the guarantees without trouble, put on their coats and went home.

Chet Wynne was accused of being the financial genius of the group, managing to obtain slightly larger guarantees, but none of them were large.

In addition to saving college baseball by maintaining the Dixie League, and fixing the schedule, the coaches arranged their basketball card.

All of which recalled Dan McGugin's assertion at the recent mad-house in New Orleans, that the coaches, if left to handle the athletic situation, would settle things in short order and maintain better standards than now exist.

The pedagogues at New Orleans squabbled, side-stepped, dodged and came up with nothing constructive. They had no confidence in each other and showed it very plainly. The coaches, who have confidence in each other move right along with the business of the day and accomplish things.

H. J. Stegeman, director of athletics, and Bill White, baseball coach, represented Georgia; Frank Anderson, basketball coach and director of athletics, represented Oglethorpe; Coach W. A. Alexander and Professor A. H. Armstrong were present from Georgia Tech; Ed Jones, of the Florida coaching staff, represented the Gainesville institution; Chet Wynne was present from Auburn.

One wonders what the conference would have done had it been confronted with the necessity of saving a baseball league, making baseball and basketball schedules and settling guarantees. They would not have reached first base, as the boys say.

SPRING FOOTBALL PRACTICE.

Reports from all fronts indicated that spring football practice would go on as usual with all conference members scheduled to get away about the first of February.

It was but a few short weeks ago that football was in the trenches, being fired on from all angles. And now the storm has abated, schedules are made and spring practice is slated for next month.

All coaches indicated that they expected the normal season next fall. Those with the best material will win the majority of their games. And the late December and early January attack on the game will come on as usual.

VINES ATTACKS U. S. L. T. A.

Elsworth Vines, the 20-year-old tennis champion, is adding to the woes of the United States Lawn Tennis Association.

With the tennis situation what it is, and with the Davis cup chance a slim one, the association must have Mr. Vines.

He may be speaking with the impetuosity of youth, but the fact remains that there is more than a little truth in his assertions that the association is in a mess because of the politics involved.

Vines has to quit school in order to train for the Davis cup team competition. His public announcement of why he was quitting school caused the association great mental anguish, many of the bigwigs squirming with pain in the public prints.

There is much of the "racket" in the large sport associations. Big Bill Tilden made them appear ridiculous and Vines will do the same thing. They need him too badly to discipline him as they will desire.

NOTHING DEFINITE, SAYS ROBBY.

Your Uncle Wilbert Robinson, while admitting that the proposition of taking a Cracker job has been made him in an unofficial and informal manner, declares that he knows nothing about it and has not considered it.

It is difficult to understand why some major league club does not extend a contract to Wilbert Robinson, calling for him to scout or coach pitchers or attend to some of the chores around a big league shop. Goodness knows he is far more valuable than a lot of the men with contracts.

Atlanta directors are promising that they will wash a lot of baseball linen in public and otherwise restore public confidence when they meet in January. Until then no official word is expected regarding Your Uncle Wilbert and the possibility of his succeeding Johnny Dobbs.

IT'S UP TO HUEY LONG.

Now that Huey Long has got himself a high-powered football coach in the person of Biff Jones, of the Army, he must overemphasize a bit and get some football players.

L. S. U. never seems to be able to develop a consistent team. There is always something wrong with the boys at some crucial moment. The big idea is to beat Tulane. Until Governor Long is able to scamper up and down the sidelines in victory, he will not be content.

And next fall is a good time in which to take the Green Wave out to sea. They lose two ends and two tackles.

Digestive Trouble Assails Lassiter

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Jan. 8.—(AP)—Bob Lassiter, of Charlotte, N. C., sophomore who succeeded Able Booth as a star in Yale's backfield last fall, will be unable to play basketball this winter because of nervous indigestion, it was learned today.

Typists Open Slate With 26-15 Victory

Commercial High opened its basketball season with a 26-to-15 victory over North Fulton High Friday afternoon on the Covenant court. Bergman was the star for Commercial, while Butler played best for the losers.

'BIG SIX' LEAGUE IS ORGANIZED BY PREP TEAMS

Madison and Monroe Are Added to Former Members of Association.

By Roy White.

Organization of a Big Six Prep league, to replace the former Big Four, was perfected Friday noon at a meeting of representatives from Boys' High, Tech High, G. M. A., Madison Aggies, Monroe Aggies and Riverside Military Academy at the Henry Grady school.

W. O. Cheney, principal of Tech High and president of the former prep loop, was made chief executive of the new organization. In fact, he was the only officer elected, but will confer with every member in case any emergency arises.

The constitution and by-laws of the Georgia High School Association were adopted in full, and all contests will be played under the G. H. S. A. eligibility rules.

Although Riverside was voted a member of the association, its place in the basketball league will be taken by some other team. Riverside has moved its school from Gainesville, Ga., to Hollywood, Fla., for three months and will resume its Big Six relations during the baseball season.

APPLICATIONS ASKED. Applications from any high or prep school within a radius of 75 miles of Atlanta to replace Riverside in basketball will be accepted and voted on. Both LaGrange and Gordon Institute, of Barnesville, were invited to the meeting, but were not represented. They are the most likely candidates for the vacant place. Friday, January 15, will be the last date for accepting a new member.

It was voted unanimously to play double-headers each Tuesday and Thursday, and each school will be represented by an A and B team to operate separately. No A member can be demoted to the B team, but any member of the B squad can be promoted to the A team at any time. The B team will play preliminaries to the varsity games.

It was left to the discretion of the home team whether the games shall be played in the afternoon or at night. The home teams keep gate receipts of their own games and the visitors pay their own expense. A home and home schedule was arranged and play will start Tuesday, January 19, with Tech High, Madison and G. M. A. as the hosts for opening games.

OFFICIALS SUGGESTED. Bobby Hammond, Luke Woodall, Nolan Richardson and Sam Glassman were selected as first choices for officials.

Those present at the meeting were W. O. Cheney and Claude Tolbert, of Tech High; H. O. Smith, R. L. Doral and Dave Johnston, of Boys' High; Sam Burdage and M. C. Paget, of G. M. A.; and Wallace Butts, of Madison Aggies. Red Barron, of Monroe, was not present, but asked to be included as a member of the new organization. Monroe was unanimously accepted.

An open date is left on the schedule as drawn up, so a new member can be substituted without any changes. The new member will be guest of Madison in the opener and alternate, thereafter, throughout both rounds.

Officials Save College Baseball

Just when it appeared that college baseball in this section had no friends at all, it was saved by the action of seven officials at a luncheon Friday at the Atlanta Athletic Club. They voted to maintain the Dixie league with five teams as members. Schedules were arranged to the satisfaction of all members. Those attending the meeting were, left to right, top row, Ed Jones, Florida; Professor A. H. Armstrong, Georgia Tech; H. J. Stegeman, Georgia, and Bill White, Georgia. Bottom row, left to right, Frank Anderson, Oglethorpe; Chet Wynne, Auburn, and W. A. Alexander, Georgia Tech.

MATCHES START IN ANSLEY MEET

Mid-Winter Play Opens Today; Green Changes Are Slated.

Match play in a mid-winter golf tournament on the Ansley Park course will start today and continue until every match has been played. The tournament, the first of its kind to be held here, is being sponsored by Tommy Wilson, club professional.

Charles Strong, winner of 74, was medalist, and will meet M. L. Shropshire in the opening round. Handicaps will apply in every flight and No. 4 greens are being made to the convenience of the players. There will be no defaulting of matches and the finals will be played before the last week in March.

Announcement made at Ansley Park Friday that changes at four of the greens will start next week or as soon as the weather permits and will be ready for play during the summer season.

A new winter green to the right of the present No. 2 will be constructed. A new winter green to the left of No. 9 also will be included in the major changes.

Numerous sand traps in front of No. 2, 9 and 10 greens are being made to increase the hazards of the nine-hole layout.

Boys' High Beaten By Lanier, 28-18

MACON, Ga., Jan. 8.—(AP)—After playing an entire quarter without a score, Lanier and Boys' High, of Atlanta, battled on even terms throughout the next two periods before Ralph Buice substituted for Charlie Harold in the Macon team's lineup and supplied the needed punch to carry the Poets to a 28-18 victory in their opening game of their 1932 season tonight. Put into the game just before the third quarter ended, Buice immediately got busy and led a bullet-like passing attack which completely dazed and bewildered their opponents who could score but five more points in the remaining 11 minutes of play.

'Biff' Jones Takes L. S. U. Coach Post

Army Captain Expresses Delight at Transfer; Ingwersen Still Being Sought As Assistant.

BATON ROUGE, La., Jan. 8.—(AP)—After a decade of "in and out" success on the gridiron, Louisiana State University today reached into the ranks of big time football and definitely landed Captain Lawrence M. (Biff) Jones, former head coach at the Army, as chief mentor for the school's eleven.

Going out under a gridiron comeback in a big way, L. S. U. is still angling for Bert Ingwersen, head coach at University of Iowa for seven years, to act as Jones' assistant.

Formal announcement was made by the war department in Washington today that Jones had been assigned to duty in the L. S. U. military department, thus clearing the way for him to accept the coaching job.

This was followed by a statement from "Biff" himself, at West Point, that he was delighted at the prospect of coming to Louisiana.

The two statements confirmed recent reports that the head coach position at L. S. U. would be placed in the hands of the man who from 1923 to 1929 turned out teams and stars that kept West Point in the forefront of national football. Ingwersen has not yet announced definitely whether he will accept the assistant's post.

Dr. James M. Smith, president of L. S. U., had nothing to say tonight regarding the university's agreement with Jones, or whether Ingwersen's services would be secured, but indicated that he might issue a statement tomorrow.

The duration of the Jones contract, and the monetary agreement, have not been disclosed. Captain "Biff" is to be accompanied to L. S. U. by Major Frank Wandle, trainer at Army during the Jones regime, and an athlete handler of national note.

A report that Christian Keener, Carle who won All-American backfield honors under the tutelage of Jones, would be one of the latter's assistants, has been denied.

Jones will succeed Russell M. Cohen, head coach since 1928, who resigned last month to accept an assistant's coaching position at Vanderbilt, his alma mater.

Governor Huey P. Long, whose interest in L. S. U. athletics during the past two years has been demonstrated in trips with the football teams, is generally credited with securing the new coaching staff.

War Department Announces Transfer. WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—(AP)—The assignment of Captain Lawrence M. (Biff) Jones, former football coach at West Point, to the Louisiana State University for student training work was announced today by the war department.

Jones Delighted With New Job. WEST POINT, N. Y., Jan. 8.—(AP)—Captain Lawrence M. (Biff) Jones, assistant graduate manager of athletics at the military academy and former head football coach here, today said he was being transferred to Louisiana State University to act as football coach. He said he was delighted at the prospect.

Captain Jones said he expected his transfer to take effect soon so that he could direct spring practice at the Baton Rouge school.

He said nothing had been decided as to his assistants and that he did not know definitely just what the coaching lineup would be.

TECH REVISES BASKET CARD

Extra Game With Georgia and Contest With Mercer Added.

A revision in Georgia Tech's basketball schedule for 1932 to admit a third game with University of Georgia in Atlanta on February 23, was announced yesterday.

Auburn, originally booked here for this date, will be played here on February 13 instead of subject to confirmation. Chet Wynne, acting for Auburn, agreed to the switch yesterday, but asked that he be allowed to submit the matter to Coach Sam McAllister, of the Plainsmen quintet, for his approval.

Another change will find Tech meeting Alabama at Birmingham on February 3, instead of at Tuscaloosa.

A game with Mercer to be played here on February 17 has been added to Tech's home schedule, and Florida is here on February 20.

The addition of the extra Georgia game and the one with Mercer brings Tech's card up to 13 games. Two more very likely will be added, including one with Kentucky, and this will give the Jackets their full quota of contests.

The revised schedule follows, including the game with Benning, already played and won by Tech: January 2—Fort Benning at Benning. January 3—Florida at Gainesville. January 12—Auburn at Auburn. January 13—Open (Clemson here, tentative).

January 20—Mercer in Macon. January 22—Georgia Tech at Auburn. January 23—Georgia at Atlanta. February 3—Alabama at Birmingham. February 12—Georgia at Atlanta. February 13—Auburn at Auburn. February 17—Mercer in Atlanta. February 20—Florida in Atlanta. February 23—Tech in Atlanta (tentative). February 25—Southern conference tournament in Atlanta.

Auburn's 1932 basketball schedule, also announced yesterday, follows: January 12—Auburn at Auburn. January 13—Auburn at Auburn. January 14—Auburn at Auburn. January 15—Auburn at Auburn. Rotarians To Fete Georgia Bulldogs

The Georgia football team, sports writers and coaches will be guests of the Athens Rotary Club January 13 at the annual luncheon.

The luncheon will be held at 2 o'clock at the Georgian hotel. Atlanta sports writers are especially invited to attend.

TRIANGLES SEEK VICTORY TONIGHT

Atlanta's Y. M. C. A. basketball team will seek its fifth victory of the season tonight against the Hubbard Hardware team, of Columbus, Ga., on the Luckie street court at 8:30 o'clock. A preliminary game between two strong amateur teams will open the double bill at 7:30 o'clock.

The Triangles won their fourth game in five starts, with a one-sided 61-to-34 victory Thursday over the Georgia State College for Men, from Tifton, Ga.

BAT BATTALINO, OVER WEIGHT, GIVES UP TITLE

Champion 10 Pounds Over Limit; Feldman Is Called Out.

NEW YORK, Jan. 8.—(P)—Christopher (Bat) Battalino, featherweight boxing champion, today weighed in at 135 3/4 pounds for his scheduled 15-round title defense against Lew Feldman in Madison Square Garden tonight.

His title was declared forfeited and the bout called off. Feldman weighed in at 125 3/4.

General John J. Phelan, member of the commission, immediately declared Battalino's title forfeited. Feldman announced that he would not fight any man and concede him that much weight, and Jimmy Johnston, Madison Square Garden promoter, scurried around frantically looking for substitutes. He found none, and a few minutes later called off the entire show.

A doctor's certificate said Battalino had injured his right knee during roadwork January 2, had been unable to run thereafter, suffered great pain, and was thus prevented from training sufficiently to pare his weight down to the featherweight limit.

In rebuttal Dr. William Walker, commission physician, examined the warrior, found a slight abrasion on the knee, and declared that in his opinion the bruise was not serious enough either to prevent his training or fighting tonight.

The dethroned titleholder weighed 140 pounds when he started training two weeks ago.

Although Feldman claimed the featherweight title as soon as Battalino defaulted, he was informed by Commissioner Phelan the claim would not be considered.

BULLPUPS PLAY TWO ROAD TILTS

University of Georgia's freshman basketball squad will play only two games away from home this season.

The Bullpup quintet will meet the Clemson College freshmen at Clemson February 1 and the Georgia Tech freshmen here February 6.

Other games will be played in Woodruff Hall, Athens, against high school teams on Friday and Saturday afternoons.

The plan to be followed at Georgia calls for four teams to play alternately in the games regardless of the strength of the opposition. The selection of a team will be delayed until the end of the season.

Coch John Broadnax, head freshman coach, will be in full charge of basketball, and will be assisted by those members of the staff who are not at present occupied with other sports.

The schedule now in process of completion will include approximately 24 games, which provide at least six games for each freshman team.

A squad of 60 reported for practice and this number about 36 players will be retained for the four teams.

Hack Wilson First 1932 Holdout

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 8.—(P)—"Hack" Wilson, leading home run hitter of the National league in 1930 and batting failure of last season, acquired recently from Chicago by the world champion Cardinals, is this year's first big league holdout.

This was disclosed today by the St. Louis Post-Dispatch in a story from a staff writer at Martinsburg, W. Va., Wilson's home. The story said "Hack" had refused to sign a one-year contract for $7,500 or $25,500 less than the contract he had with the Cubs.

"I would not sign for $7,500 under any conditions," Wilson said. "I do not think it is fair to ask me to sign for that kind of money. When I had that good year in 1930, I was given an increase of $12,000 and my contract called for $33,000 and now, after building myself up with a flock of good years, I am asked to take a $25,500 cut just because I had one bad year."

The husky outfielder revealed Branch Ricker, business manager of the Cards, had written him also saying that if he had a good season, on and off the field, he could expect a substantial gain in addition to the contract amount, but that nothing was said as to what the sum might be. Wilson said he had been prepared to take a 50 per cent cut and would like to play with the Cardinals.

NEW OFFICIAL TO WORK HERE

Officials for the Southern conference basketball tournament again to be held in Atlanta will include at least one newcomer. He is Frank Lane, Cincinnati, Ohio, who has a fine record as a basketball coach in the middle west, according to H. J. Stegeman.

S. B. Sutton, who has officiated in the annual tournament for the last 10 years, will be chief referee, while the name of the third official will be announced soon.

As announced in The Constitution recently, the tournament will be held February 26, 27, 28 and March 1 at the city auditorium.

Coch Shipley, of Maryland, will replace Jimmy Ashmore, of North Carolina, on the tournament committee. It is expected that all arrangements in regard to the tournament will be the same as in past years.

Alabama Defeats Tulane, 15 to 10

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., Jan. 8.—(P)—Alabama defeated Tulane tonight in the first of a two-game series, 15-10. Never trailing in a sternly fought defensive battle, the Crimson Tide eagles controlled a 7-1 margin at half time and increased it to 11-2 soon after the second half opened. The Greenies were limited to three field goals.

'BIG SIX' STILL HOLD YOUNGER RIVALS AT BAY

Dempsey, Jones, Hitchcock, Ruth Tilden and Hagen Remain Idols.

By Dixon Stewart.

United Press Staff Correspondent. NEW YORK, Jan. 8.—(UP)—The old guard—that brilliant group of able leaders who skyrocketed into fame during the post-war era and gave America its most glamorous decade of sport—may be failing, but it refuses to surrender.

After more than a dozen years of competition, the veterans—Dempsey, Ruth, Tilden, Hitchcock, Jones and Hagen, youthful sensations of the early '20s—still continue to crowd younger rivals out of the spotlight.

All except Jones are still in active competition, and it would not be surprising to see the emperor of golf resume his competitive career in the near future. Thus, the veterans still come pretty close to dominating their particular sports.

True, youngsters are forging to the front, but it is doubtful if any will succeed in attaining the heights reached by the "Big Six" of the last decade.

JACK MOST POPULAR.

Max Schmeling holds the world heavyweight boxing championship and probably is the best man in his field, but Jack Dempsey still remains as the best drawing card in the game. And, despite his 37 years, the former champion will have strong backing if he attempts to regain the crown from Schmeling.

Bill Tilden relinquished his amateur tennis leadership a year ago, and Ellsworth Vines, of California, gives promise of becoming a worthy successor. However, Tilden transferred his activities to professional tennis, is playing better than at any time in recent years and is regarded by many observers as the equal of any player in the world.

Bobby Jones, youngest of the "retirees," also retired from amateur play last year. He played no tourney golf in 1931, but is likely to return to action as a "businessman" golfer. And, if he does, there is little doubt he will pick up where he left off and continue as unquestioned leader of the game.

Many youthful players bid for his place last year but none was able to fill the bill and the amateur championship fell to the veteran, Francis Ouimet, who previously held the title way back in 1914.

HAGEN STILL GOOD. Walter Hagen no longer maintains absolute dominance in professional golf, but remains as the gallery favorite in any tourney he enters. His season's average of 72 strokes per round for tournament play and his acquisition of the Canadian open showed that he has not slipped very far.

Tommy Hitchcock, who for the past decade has been polo's ace, again is rated as a 10-goal man in the 1932 rankings, with his nearest rival at 8 goals. Although lack of practice kept him below top form in 1931 there would be few dissenting votes to ranking him as the world's finest player.

Young Pepper Martin, of St. Louis, captured baseball interest during the 1931 world series, but, with preparations under way for 1932, Babe Ruth again is the most talked-of player in the game.

Although almost as old as Dempsey, Tilden and Hagen, Ruth had one of his best seasons last year and his ranking as the diamond's unchallenged leader is attested by the fact that his 1932 contract probably will call for a renewal of his $50,000 salary—more than double the highest salary ever given any other player.

Help! Colleges Take Up Chess

ATHENS, Ga., Jan. 8.—An intercollegiate chess match between the University of Georgia and Mercer University is being planned for the latter part of January, according to Adolph Rosenberg, Albany, a member of the University Chess Club.

The members of the university team will be chosen on a competitive basis at the regular meetings of the Chess Club, which are held every Monday.

The Mercer students are members of the Macon Chess Club, said to be the most active chess club in the state. The team composed of four or five of their best players, will visit the university on a tour during which it will also play Emory University and Boys' High school in Atlanta.

HARRIS SIGNS.

GREENSBORO, N. C., Jan. 8.—(P)—Dave Harris, Washington Senators' outfielder, today said he had signed his contract for 1932 at the same amount he received last year. He did not disclose the figure.

Huff To Captain Boys' High Nine

Although baseball is three months off, Boys' High is looking forward with interest to the opening of the spring season. George Huff, veteran third baseman, was named to captain the 1932 team, and Bobby Clark, an outfielder, has been selected as alternate captain.

FIVE MEETS.

Five dual track meets are listed on the University of Georgia's schedule for the 1932 season.

Jackets Battle Florida Tonight

Coach Roy Mundorff and his Georgia Tech basketball squad entrained last night at 7:25 o'clock for Gainesville, Fla., where tonight the Jackets engage the Vastars in their opening basketball game.

Only eight players were carried. They were: Perkins, Gooding, Shocumb, Pool, McArthur, Katz, Payne and Davis.
